

Assignment Three Rubric

	Excellent – 2 points	Competent – 1 point	Insufficient or missing – 0 points
Erikson introduction	Excellent introduction to the key principles of Erikson's theory.	Sufficient introduction to the key principles of Erikson's theory.	Insufficient introduction to the theory or introduction is not present, the work presented is plagiarised or the theory selected is not appropriate.
	Excellent – 4 points	Competent - 3 points	Satisfactory – 2 points	Developing – 1 point	Insufficient or missing – 0 points
Erikson stage	Excellent presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage for the selected case study. There is an understanding of the resolution of the prior stage.	Good presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage. There is likely consideration of the resolution of the previous stage.	Some presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage. There is likely no consideration of the previous stage.	Minimal or incomplete presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage, or the student has provided unnecessary information, such as a summary of each of the eight stages in Erikson's theory.	Not present or the work presented is plagiarised. There may be an overuse of quotes in the description of the stages.
	Excellent – 4 points	Competent – 3 points	Satisfactory - 2 points	Developing – 1 point.	Insufficient or missing – 0 points

Assignment Three Rubric

Erikson application	Excellent developmental analysis using excellent examples from the case study. Based on the analysis provided, the student has stated whether their case study character will resolve the current stage positively or negatively.	Good developmental analysis using appropriate examples from the case study. The student has stated whether the current stage will be resolved positively or negatively, but this is not well supported through examples.	Examples from the case study included, but link to the theory limited. There is no consideration of whether the current stage will be resolved positively or negatively.	Examples from the case study included, but not always appropriate or well developed.	Not present or the work presented is plagiarised.
	Excellent – 2 points	Competent – 1 point	Insufficient or missing – 0 points
Socioemotional theory introduction	Excellent introduction to the principles of selected socioemotional theory or theories.	Sufficient introduction to the principles of selected socioemotional theory or theories.	Insufficient introduction to the theory or introduction is not present, the work presented is plagiarised or the theory selected is not appropriate.
	Excellent – 4 points	Competent - 3 points	Satisfactory – 2 points	Developing – 1 point	Insufficient or missing – 0 points
Socioemotional theory stage/concept	Excellent presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage/concept that applies to the selected case study.	Good presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage.	Some presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage.	Minimal or incomplete presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage.	Not present or the work presented is plagiarised.

Assignment Three Rubric

Socioemotional theory application	Excellent developmental analysis using excellent, fully developed examples from the case study. There is a consideration of whether the case study demonstrates positive or negative socioemotional development.	Good developmental analysis using appropriate and developed examples from the case study.	Appropriate examples from the case study included, but link to the theory limited.	Examples from the case study included, but not always appropriate, well developed, or their link to theory may be weak.	Not present or the work presented is plagiarised.
	Excellent – 2 points	Competent – 1 point	Insufficient or missing – 0 points
Cognitive theory introduction	Excellent introduction to the principles of selected cognitive theory or theories. For adult case studies, a strong discussion of postformal thought precedes theory, and there is a consideration of the limitations of formal operational thought.	Good introduction to the principles of selected cognitive theory or theories. Introduction may need further development. For adult case studies, a good discussion of postformal thought precedes theory.	Insufficient introduction to the theory or introduction is not present, the work presented is plagiarised or the theory selected is not appropriate. For adult case studies, discussion of postformal thought may be missing.
	Excellent – 4 points	Competent - 3 points	Satisfactory – 2 points	Developing – 1 point	Insufficient or missing – 0 points
Cognitive theory stage/concept	Excellent presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage/concept.	Good presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage/concept.	Some presentation of key features and concepts of the appropriate stage/concept.	Minimal or incomplete presentation of key features and concepts of the	Not present or the work presented is plagiarised.

Assignment Three Rubric

				appropriate stage/concept.
	Excellent – 4 points		Competent - 3 points	Satisfactory – 2 points	Developing – 1 point	Insufficient or missing – 0 points
Cognitive theory application	Excellent developmental analysis using excellent examples from the case study.		Good developmental analysis using appropriate examples from the case study.	Examples from the case study included, but link to the theory limited or not entirely appropriate.	Examples from the case study included, but not always appropriate or well developed, or their link to theory may be weak.	Not present or the work presented is plagiarised.
	Excellent – 4 points		Good – 3 points	Developing – 2 points	Limited – 1 point	Not present or missing – 0 points
Evaluation	Excellent insight and reflection including personal insights and a critique of the usefulness of some of the theory used in the analysis.		Good insight and reflection including personal insights a critique of the usefulness of some of the theory used in the analysis.	Some reflection; limited critique of the usefulness of some of the theory used in the analysis – largely a summary.	Lacks reflection; poor or missing critique of the usefulness of some of the theory used in the analysis – a summary or conclusion is provided instead.	Not present or the work presented is plagiarised.
	Excellent – 5 points	Very good – 4 points	Good – 3 points	Developing – 2 points	Limited – 1 point	Not present or missing – 0 points
Use of literature and academic writing	Excellent use of course literature to support descriptions of	Good use of course literature to support descriptions	Satisfactory use of literature to support descriptions. Some course literature used. Citations are	Some course literature used to support descriptions and	Literature used to support descriptions. Use of literature may need further	Literature is used to support descriptions but APA formatting may need theories. Sources are well-chosen and correctly cited. Excellent use of APA referencing and citations include correct page numbers. Citations are well-integrated with each other. Descriptions are clear, integrated and well-written.	in all or almost all places required. Sources are well-chosen and correctly cited. Good use of APA referencing and citations include correct page numbers. Citations are mostly integrated with each other. Descriptions are clear, integrated and well-written.	included in most places required. Adequate use of APA referencing. Writing is satisfactory. Citations may be integrated with each other.	satisfactory use of external sources. Citations are included in most places required. Adequate use of APA referencing. There may be an attempt to integrate citations with each other. Writing is satisfactory.	development and citations may be missing in key places. Citations are not well integrated. Minimal use of course literature. Writing may be difficult to follow.	significant development. Citations may be missing in many places. No course literature is used. Sources may be very old or inappropriate. Reference list and citations may contain significant errors or be missing. Writing may be difficult to follow and contain multiple spelling and grammatical errors.

Assignment Three Rubric

	1 point		0 points

Assignment Three Rubric

AI statement	Gen AI declaration statement completed on Massey template, all relevant sections completed and sufficient detail included.	Incorrect or incomplete Gen AI statement provided. No Gen AI declaration statement provided.
--------------	--	---